MODERN BUSINESS.

The visitor was being shown about by the head of the up-to-date business house.
"Who is that dapper youth at the glass topped desk?" he asked.
"That is the superintendent of the card index system. He keeps an index showing where the index cases are."
"Who is the young man with the grey gaiters and the efficient ears?"
"He keeps an index showing the length of time it takes to index the indexes."
"Who is the girl with the golden hair?"
"She decides under what index an index to the index of the filing cabinets shall be placed."
"And who is the grey-haired man at the disordered desk in the corner?"
"Oh, that's Old Jigger. He doesn't fit in very well with the rest of the office, but I have to keep him around. He's the only employee who can find important papers when I want them in a hurry."

DEARER COTTON GOODS.

THE WAGE FACTOR.

(FROM A TEXTILE CORRESPONDENT.)

The world will have to reconcile itself as best it can to great advances in the price of the most widely used of its supplies of clothing—cotton goods. During the past two years the prices have at least doubled, and there is no trace of finality in the upward tendency, which still goes on.

Two years ago mid-American cotton was selling at a decimal over 5d. a pound. That is a price which, according to Lancashire estimates, to-day, and according to American estimates a few years ago, enables the American farmer to make a reasonable profit. When he gets lower than 5d. the business is not lucrative from his point of view, and he is tempted to turn his attention to other kinds of crops. But fifteenpenny cotton is a thing of the past. To-day the cost is approaching one shilling. And the raw material has by no means been alone in this matter of unparalleled advances. Every process through which the cotton goes has become dearer.

One need not again enter into the details. The significant fact to bear in mind is that 50 per cent. of the products of the mules and looms of Lancashire goes abroad, and that it is purchased, for the most part, by people whose riches, if they have any, consist in the futility of their wants. The money which they get in return for their labour is ridiculously small, and it is with money and not goods that they buy cotton cloths. They have been accustomed to securing their garments at certain fixed rates. Qualities and lengths have varied as the markets have changed, but prices have been fairly stationary. That system can no longer prevail. With the cost of production doubled higher rates will be demanded. The moment that is done suspicions will be aroused; the natives are conspicuously suspicious. They will hang back. They will deny themselves the joys of new clothing as long as they can. The climate in which they live aids them in this act of self-denial. Already there has been a slump in some of the eastern markets, and the reason for it is not far to seek. It will continue, to a greater or less extent, until the natives become accustomed to the new rates.

THE INFLUENCE OF WAGES.

The dearth of all materials which are used in the manufacture of cotton goods is not alone answerable for the advanced rates. Wages also come into the scheme. Throughout the whole of October the cotton trade of Lancashire was agitated by a demand on the part of a section of the workpeople for better rates of pay. This time it was not the spinners or the cardroom workers who have been called the stormy petrels of the cotton trade, who were to the fore, but the much quieter, the much more retiring weavers. Probably there are in Lancashire about 300,000 weavers, who control about 800,000 looms. There are not such weavers in any other part of the world. They are the product of succeeding generations of weavers, possessing hereditary gifts. Their chief centres are Blackburn and Burnley, and the cloth they weave is famous throughout the world. It holds the same place in cotton goods that the British sovereign when it was in evidence held in currency. In normal times about half the weavers are women. Now, owing to the

WHOOPING COUGH.

When your child has whooping cough, be careful to keep the cough loose and expectoration easy by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as it may be required. This remedy will also liquefy the tough mucus and make it easier to expectorate. It has been used successfully in many epidemics and as it contains no narcotics or other injurious substances it is perfectly safe. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

RELATIONS BETWEEN CAPITAL AND LABOUR.

These contentions have appeared with considerable force to the employers in the manufacturing trade. Many of them, in confidential moments have frankly confessed that they did not think that weavers as a class were well paid. That advance was conceded very graciously—hoping that the better relationships between capital and labour for which we are all hoping as an outcome of the bonds which have been forged between capital and labour in the trenches. There still remain, among the old-fashioned manufacturers, many who hold the view that 50s. or 54s. a week is quite enough to pay a weaver, but they are nearly all confined to the old generation. Among the new men the admission is made that the wages basis even though it is now 15 per cent. higher than it was half a century ago and 10 per cent. higher than ten months ago is bound to ascend to a still higher level, probably before long.

Whether the successful application of the weavers influenced them or not one does not know, but in the same week in which the weavers secured their advance the old-fashioned manufacturers put in a claim for a further advance on their own behalf. This branch of the trade has been most persistent in recent years, in its efforts to get better rates of pay. Once known as the "white slaves of the cotton trade" they learnt a lesson in organization from the spinners. They saw that the spinners were successful in improving their lot because their trade union was powerful and was well provided with funds, and they built up their organization on similar lines. They contend that as wages advance invariably lead to a decrease in the price of cloth the manufacturer is not injured by having to pay his workpeople a wage which will enable them to enjoy the comforts of life which are at the disposal of other workers whose employment is neither more arduous nor more arduous. As they support this contention by a very powerful organization their action is further proof that consumers will have to reconcile themselves to the payment of higher rates for cotton goods than they have been in the habit of paying hitherto.—The Times Trade Supplement.

LONDON, Dec. 27.

General Sir Douglas Haig reports: We searched and bombed a few hundred yards of trenches and dugouts to the north-west of Lens, greatly damaging them without incurring any casualties.

Our positions northward of the Somme and near Le Sars were heavily shelled at intervals.

We successfully bombarded defences and trench-mortar emplacements in the neighbourhood of Hulluch and westward of Messines.

There have been a number of air-fights. An enemy aeroplane was destroyed and five damaged. Three of ours are missing.

THE FRENCH FRONT.

PARIS, Dec. 27.

A communiqué states: There is marked artillery activity in some sectors south of the Somme, where an enemy battery was exploded.

We successfully fired several mines in the region of Bourgnies, south of Arras; then raided the enemy lines, capturing prisoners.

30,000 VACCINATIONS.

WORK OF SANITARY DEPARTMENT AND CHINESE DISPENSARIES.

Dr. Woodman, Medical Officer of Health, at a meeting of the Sanitary Board this afternoon gave the following interesting statement on the work of vaccinating the Chinese:—

During the 14 days ending December 23rd, the Chinese Dispensaries performed 6,000 vaccinations and our special vaccinators in the Western District 7,500. I estimate that up to to-day these institutions and our vaccinators have vaccinated a further 6,000 at least. In addition to the above we have opened the following stations:—

Shau Ki Wan on Xmas Day..... 500 vaccination
On the Peak, opened 27th Dec. 200 "
At the back of the Post Office..... 1200 "

Vaccinations at firms' premises..... 600 " making a total of 22,000 vaccinations. In addition to these the Government Civil Hospital and the Tung Wah Hospital and private practitioners have done a very large number and I should think that the total number of vaccinations performed during the last 17 days can be little short of 30,000, a number which considerably exceeds the total number of vaccinations in the Colony for the past three years.

I estimate that our own vaccinators are now vaccinating from 1,500 to 2,000 a day and that the Chinese institutions are doing at least another 1,000 to 1,500 a day. We hope shortly to be able to add considerably to our vaccinating staff when, of course, more vaccinations will be able to be performed.

With regard to small-pox there have been 251 Chinese cases this month with 108 deaths; 12 British cases with two deaths and one American died. There are, of course, a considerable number under treatment.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION AT SHANGHAI.

Mr. K. J. McEuen, Captain Superintendent of Police at Shanghai, in his monthly report states that the political situation continues to improve. The office opened in Shanghai for the distribution of registration funds closed on November 6 after $174,000 had been handed to 616 rebel leaders for distribution among their followers. It is now estimated that 7,000 rebels have left Shanghai as a result. In spite of this excellent work 2,800 remain behind who have no proper leaders and whose claims for participation in the funds have not been recognized. It is far from clear how they support themselves, and there is little room for doubt that it is from their tanks that the gangs of armed robbers are drawn.

THE MAGISTRACY.

EXPORTING DOLLARS.

Rigorous steps are being taken by the authorities to prevent the exportation from the Colony of silver dollars. Already there is a shortage due to the high exchange. This morning a Chinese who had 282 dollars on board the s.s. Kai-fong, which was about to leave for Hoihow, was fined $10, and the dollars confiscated on a charge of illegal exportation.

SCENE ON THE "EMPRESS."

A fracas occurred on board the s.s. Empress of Russia last evening. One of the boatwains was paying off some of the crew when apparently a dispute arose regarding the payment for overtime. The crew, it is thought, threatened the boatwain who whipped out a knife and stabbed two men severely. One man's ear was nearly cut off and the other man received a deep gash in the abdomen. The wounded were taken to hospital and the boatwain arrested on a charge of causing grievous bodily harm. He was before the Court this morning and remanded.

DAYLIGHT ROBBERY.

A daring robbery in broad daylight took place in the thickest part of the Chinese quarter yesterday afternoon. The house selected by an armed gang of six men was 72 Ko Shing Street, second floor, where a concubine and her daughter were alone. The men carried knives, prised open the door and immediately seized the woman and bound and gagged her. They ransacked the floor throughout and got away with jewellery valued at $400, a quantity of clothing and $691 in cash and notes. Some arrests were made later in the day and a portion of the goods stolen recovered.

PRESIDENT LI'S TRIBUTE TO A MISSIONARY.

At the funeral of the late Dr. W. A. P. Martin, who spent upwards of 60 years in mission work in China, Mr. Quo Tai-chi, representing President Li Yuan-hung, read in a subdued but clear voice a message from the President. The following is a translation:—

"On this 19th day of the 12th month of the 8th year of the Republic, the President specially despatches Quo Tai-chi, his Secretary, to offer sacrifice to the memory of the late American Doctor W. A. P. Martin said to read the following elegy:—

"The late doctor was a man of fine character and shining virtue. Having reached his ninetieth year, he has at last rendered up his soul to Heaven before being able to celebrate his hundredth birthday. He enjoyed an exceptional popularity as well as the respect of the scholars and officials both in this country and elsewhere in this country. His loss is mourned by the rising generation as the death of a teacher and by the veteran scholars as the death of a dear friend. His memory will be ever held dear and revered by them.

"The late doctor lived in this country for over sixty years. He was of profound scholarship and unimpeachable character; and his distinguished services rendered in connection with the opening of this country to the new thoughts and ideas and the introduction of new learning into this land will go down in history for ever. I, the President, have had much respect for his virtues and personal character and a great admiration for his scholarship. His death fills my heart with sorrow and bereavement. There is always an end to human life, and one who leaves this world never returns to us again. And whilst the deceased shall be forever remembered by us, we can no longer expect to see him again. The succession of one generation by another is likened by our ancient worthies to the running of a river. The passing away of a figure which has been regarded by scholars of this country as the Tai Mountain and the North Pole Star fills us with particular sorrow and grief and causes our tears to run down our cheeks. Our heart is further distressed when we witness the solemn funeral rites in honour of the deceased. This elegy, written as it is in unpolished language, serves to express our sorrow and deep sympathy. We hereby present our offerings and pay our last homage to the memory of the deceased."

POULTERERS' BUSINESS HOUSES.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON QUESTION OF ACCOMMODATION.

At a meeting of the Sanitary Board this afternoon a report by the Committee appointed to consider the question of the accommodation required by the wholesale poultry trade and the possibility of providing such accommodation elsewhere than in Ko Shing and Li Sing Streets, was read. The report was as under:—

We have inspected the premises at present occupied by the wholesale poultry dealers, of whom there are three. Particulars of such premises are contained in the President's memorandum dated 26.10.16. The dealers do not however so far as our observation goes use any part of their premises for the accommodation of the poultry. The premises are occupied solely by their flocks and by the parties who bring the poultry to Hongkong from up country and who spend the night in Hongkong. The entire business of sorting the poultry is conducted actually in the street, the empty crates being also stored in the street. The poultry themselves appear to pass through the hands of the wholesale dealers very rapidly and are not stored for any length of time. The only poultry we saw on the occasion of our visit were a few geese in a crate in Li Sing Street.

The dealers informed us that they must carry on their business in the open air as they required plenty of light and air. They objected to any suggestion that they should conduct their business inside a godown or a roofed structure.

We find that there is an area of Crown land opposite the Sailors' Home and extending from Des Vaux Road to Connaught Road which we regard as suitable for the wholesale poultry trade. The area referred to has a frontage of 58 feet on each of the roads mentioned and depth of 180 feet and contains about 9,800 square feet. It is at present let for temporary occupation but we are informed that possession of it can be obtained at comparatively short notice. We submit that a recommendation be forwarded to Government that the area in question be laid out as a depot for the storage and sorting of poultry, the depot to be conducted on similar lines to the cattle and pig and sheep depots. No buildings would be required except such as are necessary to accommodate the caretakers or watchmen and to furnish a small shed or office in which the dealers can perform any bookkeeping or clerical work. The entire surface of the depot should be concreted or covered with other material of an impervious nature. The dealers stipulated that they should be allowed to have attendants within the depot to feed and water the poultry belonging to them and we see no difficulty in arranging this.

The Committee was composed of the Hon. Mr. W. Chatham, C.M.G., Vice-President of the Board and Director of Public Works; Mr. F. B. Law, Bowley, Mr. Ng Hon Tsz and Mr. Chan Kai Ming.

The Chairman moved the adoption of the Committee's recommendation. The Vice-Chairman said it was suggested that the depot should be run on the same lines as the cattle and sheep with charges for, say 60 head of poultry or any fraction thereof. The depot should be open to anyone who wanted to start as a poultry dealer and there should not be a monopoly.

Mr. Bowley said the existing arrangements caused a great nuisance and the Government should be urged at once to appropriate the suggested site. The question of administration should stand over. He seconded the motion embodying immediate action on the part of the Government.

The motion was carried.

ANOTHER HSUCHOW CONFERENCE.

CHANG HSUN AGAIN SUMMONS HIS CONFEDERATES.

A vernacular contemporary reports that under the pretext of "maintaining the situation of the country" Chang Hsun is again summoning his confederates to another Conference at his headquarters at Hanchow. The object of the Conference is alleged to be the formulation of a demand for the dissolution of Parliament and the political elimination of the Kuo Min Tang. The Conference is to be known as the United Conference of the Provinces. The Tschun or military governors of many of the provinces—like Shantung, Fengtien, Kirin, Hupeh and others—are reported to have responded to Chang Hsun's invitation and to have intimated their intention of sending delegates to the gathering.

CHINA AND THE STATE RELIGION QUESTION.

The Rev. S. I. Woodbridge, Editor of the "Chinese Christian Intelligence," writes:—

Since the proposal by certain prominent Chinese to bring before the Chinese Government a law hostile to the freedom of worship the best Christian writers from all parts of China have been publishing their views in the columns of my paper. Their articles have never been translated into English; but suffice to say, they exhibit a consummate skill in dialectics and a splendid knowledge of European history during the dark ages and after.

Many enlightened Chinese representing various bodies of Christians are now in Peking using their best endeavours to forestall the enactment of this obnoxious law; and telegrams to the President and Parliament have been sent from all parts of China by Chinese Christians who for the most part constitute the advanced position of the Progressive Party in China to-day.

Foreigners have no part to play in the matter but stand aside as interested well-wishers. The Law is strongly advocated by General Chang Hsun of Hanchow and Hon. Kang Yu-wei, the noted reformer; and strenuously resisted by the clergy and educationalists. From our issue of December 29, I have made a brief translation of an appeal which goes out to our readers in China and abroad. This appeal I append.

AN APPEAL TO OUR FELLOW COUNTRYMEN.
By Delegates from the Catholic, Episcopal, Anglican, Presbyterian, American Board, Methodist, London Mission and Independent Churches, representing 3,000,000 Christians throughout China.

Fellow Countrymen.—For two years the Government of China has been considering the Law that should be enacted in a Constitutional Government. Among these is one which deeply concerns the welfare of our country. We refer to Section XIX, Art. 2, in which it is stated that Confucianism is the only basis of true morality and ethics. It is proposed to incorporate this in the Constitution of the Chinese Republic.

For two thousand years China has possessed no Constitutional Government, but our people have been free to worship according to the dictates of their own consciences. Confucius was one of China's honoured sages; but morals and ethics existed before his age and while we do not mean to disparage his moral teaching, we wish to point out that the passage of such a law would have a deleterious effect upon our people and our country. Among the evils and dangers of such an unjust law we mention four:—

1. It would revive the old monarchic idea.
2. It would create a fresh distinction between the people and Christians.
3. It would be the progress of true democratic principles.
4. It would cause violent strife between the people, represented by our well-coloured flag, who belong to various religions.

We call to see why our Government should at this time insist upon this law which favours one single cult. With the experience of history in the west during the middle ages, why should this apple of discord be sown among our people to create disturbance and ill-feeling?

The late President was in favour of a monarchy; but he is dead and his ideas of absolutism have passed away. This proposed law makes a most disagreeable effect on monarchism and we trust that our Chinese people will agree with us that it should not be enacted. And this appeal is made to you brethren and fellow countrymen in order that our country may be kept from strife and discord and enabled possibly to pursue her way along the path of progress.

DEMON AND CHASTE WOMAN.

The following comment on the German Peace Offer is taken (heading included) from the "Manchurian Daily News" (a Japanese paper published in English at Dairen):—

All economic questions are stone dead to cries of sentimentalism. No reasoning, however unassailable, can move them.

However, while it is undeniable that Germany is anxious to play her trump card on meeting a stroke of good luck in the Rumanian campaign, she had the nerve to propose terms which, if accepted by the Allies, would place Germany in a position far stronger than at the commencement of the great War. It would mean the submission of the Allies to Germany, who, taking advantage of her new re-asserted position, would be certain to take to leading it over the world in a more obtrusive and high-handed manner.

It makes our blood boil like scalding oil in the red-hot cauldron to learn of Germany's audacious declaration that, in case of the Allies failing to respond to her peace overture on such impossible terms as above mentioned, the blood of all the lives to be wantonly wasted on the field by the continuation of the War would be on the heads of the Allies, not Germany.

Germany might be likened to a cut-throat covering a chaste woman with a pistol calling upon her to submit to his savage desires, or else she forfeit her own life.

Fortitude is always the wages of sin or crime. The Allies in their cause of justice and humanity can have nothing to be forgiven.

Unless Germany owns herself to be in the wrong and offers a tangible proof of penitence, time for which is bound to come inevitably at the end of the war, all the lives and money already lavished with so appalling extravagance and still to be wasted for the preservation of the holy grail of the Allies against the impious and blasphemous Germany must be rightly laid at her door.

ENEMY BREAK THROUGH RUSSIAN POSITIONS.

A Berlin communiqué claims that they have broken through several Russian positions and that the Eastern Danube Army has forced its way to the enemy front after bitter fighting, compelling their retreat (from?) prepared positions. The communiqué says the enemy since the 22nd inst. has lost 7,000 prisoners.

RUSSIANS DESTROYING DANUBE BRIDGES.

ANGLO-AMERICAN FINANCIAL RELATIONS.

AN IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENT.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. The Federal Reserve Board is permitted to appoint the Bank of England as its agent under the American Banking laws.

This is a most important development and a radical departure from existing financial methods, as it practically places the American and British Governments in direct financial relationship.

The first effect is expected to be noticeable in a decreased use of gold for the settlement of international balances.

LONDON, Dec. 27. The Times says the appointments of the Bohemian-Slavi Countess Ciani Martinez and Cionceni, an Austrian Premier and Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister respectively, seem to have an anti-Magyar and anti-Prussian tendency and are likely to be viewed with displeasure at Budapest and Berlin.

LONDON, Dec. 27. Reuter learns that the Allied reply to the German Peace Note is being drafted in Paris. The Allies are communicating with each other on the subject.

It is unlikely that official action will be taken in regard to answering the American and Swiss Notes until the German Note has been dealt with.

A report that Great Britain has received a Peace Note from Sweden is erroneous, but it is believed that a Note is imminent.

THE IMPERIAL WAR COUNCIL.

THE REPRESENTATION OF INDIA.

LONDON, Dec. 27. The Daily Chronicle says it is right and proper that India should be represented on the Imperial War Council, for her interests are vitally concerned, her vast population has remained peaceable and loyal and the Ruling Chiefs and others have given many touching examples of their devotion to the Empire.

The Daily News says the presence of representatives of India beside the Premier of the Dominions will mark the opening of a new epoch. It will be a profound disappointment if it is not decided that at least one of the spokesmen of India shall be an Indian.

LATER. The newspapers applaud the decision that India shall be represented at the Imperial Conference.

The Times says India is to be given a place in the Conference to which her enthusiastic and devoted support of the Imperial cause in the war entitles her. The extension of the invitation to India suggests that the Government does not anticipate any objection from the Dominions. India, indeed, has buttressed her claim, already very strong, by the splendour of her devotion to the Imperial tie in a time of war. The Government now show that they recognise her desire and strongly sympathise with her legitimate and moderate aspirations.

The Daily Mail says the representation of India by Mr. Chamberlain and two skilled advisers from the East will give due weight to Indian opinion in the War Cabinet as is only right after the noble contribution which the Indian Army and Princes have made in the cause of freedom.

EARLIER TELEGRAMS.

FURTHER PEACE PROPOSAL FROM GERMANY.

AN IMMEDIATE CONFERENCE OF BELLIGERENTS SUGGESTED.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. Germany has proposed an immediate meeting of the belligerents to discuss peace.

Germany's proposal was contained in the German reply to President Wilson's Note. The reply says that the high-minded suggestion made by Mr. Wilson in order to create a basis for the establishment of lasting peace, has been considered by the German Government in a friendly spirit. Germany thinks the best way to realise the President's aim is an immediate conference of belligerents in a neutral place. The great work of preventing future wars can be begun only after the end of the present struggle, when Germany will be pleased to collaborate with the United States in this exalted task.

BRITISH COMMENT.

LONDON, Dec. 27. Germany's latest move is regarded as another attempt to rush the Allies into a so-called Peace Conference at any cost, with the object of jockeying them into a false position in the light of neutrals, but last night's bombshell is not likely to have the desired effect in America, since Germany has persistently refused to reveal her peace terms, thus deliberately ignoring President Wilson's appeal to both sides to place their cards on the table.

Moreover, Germany has violated all diplomatic courtesies in allowing the publication of the Note in Berlin before its receipt in Washington. President Wilson receiving the first news from journalists.

HOW KRUPP'S WAS BOMBED.

FRENCH AIRMEN'S FLIGHT TO ESSEN AND BACK.

[BY LIEUTENANT DAVOUT in the "Daily Chronicle"]

Lieutenant Davout, who, with the Captain Beauchamps, (since killed) recently flew to Essen and back and bombed the famous Krupp Works, contributes a thrilling story of his daring exploit, remarks the "Daily Chronicle" of November 27.

This 500 mile journey across the Rhine, which occupied seven hours, was performed with many exciting adventures, both airmen being attacked by enemy scouts as well as anti-aircraft guns.

It is interesting to note that both these brilliant French fliers used a British type of machine.

How I bombed Essen! Indeed, it was very simple, as you will see by these extracts of my log-book, where I consigned some of my impressions during my journey. I would remind you first that two French aeroplanes, one piloted by Captain Beauchamps, the other by me, effected the raid. Our preparations and the way our planes were fitted cannot be described here, being, I am afraid, considered as a military secret. But it might interest you to know that the machines were of British design.

Although we had to cover a distance of nearly 500 miles it was not so frightful. I had an extensive training for seven years, and have always been a specialist of long-distance flying, as witness my participation in the Circuit de Paris (400 miles), the Coupe Fomery (120 miles), Paris-Berlin, in 1913 (600 miles), and my journey Paris-Vienna-Budapest-Bucharest-Varna-Constantinople-Konja-Adana, and finally Syria (over 3,000 miles).

OVER GERMAN LINES.

11 a.m.—My friend Beauchamps has just gone and I followed two minutes later. One thousand yards up, 3,000 we keep on getting higher and higher. The weather is clear with just a few clouds over 9,000 ft. The air is distinctly cold.

12 a.m.—I am full over the Boche lines. We are seen and the anti-aircraft guns start a curtain fire. The light forward, but too high. The white puffs of the "77" make a line of smoke which I have got to cross. Soon the shots become more and more numerous. 300 shots at least must have been fired in a few minutes. Time after time I get right into the smoke of the bursting shells and I can hear the Boche while near very near. Oh, the Boche gunner rectifies his range. But he is too low now, so I go higher still, and I pass.

Now there are shots on my left, which burst with black smoke. 106-calibre shells. This is getting more serious. I don't know where the shells are coming from, but all of a sudden, I go 80 degrees to the left and drop straight towards the ground for 300 ft. The game is finished and the gunners done. Out of spite they shoot all over the place, and the shells burst near the back of my head. I look as if I was going to get out of trouble without much difficulty.

Now where is my friend? I cannot see him. Has he been brought down? Has he changed his line?

ATTACKED BY ENEMY ARTILLERY.

A little under me I can see a big fat yellow plane. Black crosses! It's a Boche. Another one follows very near. The distance between us is about 600 feet, but they are much slower than I am. Clac-clac-clac. It is Mr. Boche opening fire. The short bursts of his machine-gun keep repeating. The brute does not shoot badly. Shall I engage him in a fight? It is really very tempting.

But no, Essen is my only target, and I have no right to compromise, by a passing engagement, the success of our raid. I open my engine right out, and lose soon my aggressors.

As I fly over Ives I just distinguished on my left the outline of another plane. It is getting nearer and nearer. The sun prevents me from seeing the silhouette of my companion's machine. No doubt it is a Boche, but I do not have time to think. I am now the last of a column of four, and I am going to get out of trouble without much difficulty. It looks beautiful from up here. Somehow my confidence increases every minute. Sure, everything will go well. I cross over the right bank. On the river many long convoys of barges go up towards Coblenz. I only I did not have the command of bombs to deliver, should go down to gun them. It is funny how strong these temptations are. Here is Bonn. My friend and co-raider is still on my right. My engine keeps on turning merrily, and I marvel at the ease with which I have covered the 200 kilometres that we are going at the rate of about 130 miles an hour. It is a goodish speed. The weather is cold up here. My thermometer shows 18 deg below zero. To try and get warm I move arms and legs as much as I can in the cramped space. A few drops of peppermint which I drink warm my inside and cool my mouth.

Undoubtedly the Rhine and still more boats. Now we pass a town which seems enormous. It is Cologne. What a splendid target it would make. But there are women, children, old people, and I am a soldier, not a pirate, I must aim at destroying the military power of the enemy.

Now I point straight towards Düsseldorf. But all district disappears under a pool of smoke. What an extraordinary agglomeration of works! Here are Solingen, Elberfeld, Barmen, black country criss-crossed by innumerable railway lines and with hundreds of high chimneys, like gums pointing to the sky. Down there a tremendous amount of work is being done. It is all to be directed against us, are produced with a tremendous activity.

ESSEN AT LAST.

Essen at last! I am over what has been considered as the heart of Germany, over the town which stands as the symbol of central force. Where now are the Krupp works. Here, at the west of the town, how large they are! The shops and buildings between which trains are running seem innumerable. The attempts to disguise it are indeed foolish. If it is the most perfect target one can imagine. Now I suppose I am going to be "strafed." I look here and there for bursting shells. Nothing. They aim too low. However, some very violent waves of smoke of which I do not understand the cause dash for a moment my bombing preparation.

2 o'clock. The centre of the works pass, I drop my torpedoes in rapid succession. My friend who is over me and a little on the left drops his also. I guess, more than I can exactly see, as I am so very high, that underneath in the works the people suffer from a sort of madness. There are rushes of people soon hidden by clouds of smoke which rise from many points. Nearly at the centre it seems that there is a formidable explosion, followed by intense fire. What a joy to have obtained such a result.

Krupp has been bombed, in full daylight, in spite of its anti-aircraft guns and of its planes. I suppose that now the Boches must be mad with fury, and will try to chase us. Never mind, my mission has been fulfilled. I will fight enemy planes if they come.

CHASE ON RETURN JOURNEY.

Here I am again over Düsseldorf, but not going so fast as coming in. The wind, which has veered, hampers me. A quick verification of my oil and petrol tanks. All is well, I can keep up for another six hours. The clouds get denser and denser. There is at some moments a thick mist, which veils completely the ground. My only guide is now the compass, S.W.W.

As I am browsing, some explosions thunder louder than the noise of my engine. I turn right round, so that the Boche gunner loses the range. But as I turn I see 1,000 or 2,000 ft. under me three Boche planes, who are giving chase. Their machines are as fast as mine, but as soon as they try to go up they lose ground. I slacken for a few seconds and going straight towards the most forward of them, I serve him at about 150 yards with three bursts of my machine-gun. Unnerved, he prefers not to engage in a fight and flies towards the left. But the others are attacking me from the back. It is time to go.

Have I wounded my opponent? I don't think so, at least he is not flying straight but very much lower. Soon the two others are only black spots. The chase has lasted over 30 minutes, and I have got a real stiff neck, so often did I turn round. Now I have been up six hours. Time drags dreadfully. My eyes hurt and I suffer from the cold. Evidently I am over Belgium now. But where? I must know, I come down, engine stopped. How sweet is that silence after six hours of tempest! Four thousand feet; it is low enough.

AMONG FRIENDS AGAIN.

8.30.—I cannot stand it any more I am coming down, 7,000 ft., 5,000 ft., 1,000 ft. I cannot hear the guns any more. But what are these! Bivouacs. Am I in France? I keep on for another quarter of an hour, going south, and finally alight in an immense field, far from a village. I am in the Champagne, the Germans will fly away under their nose.

I am at the end of the field, ready to start again in case of alert. I have kept my engine turning slowly. After five minutes of waiting some people come running towards me, peasants. I shout to them at the top of my voice. Where am I? At Chateauvieux, they answer me. What a joy is mine, I am in France, back after having succeeded in what seemed to men an impossible enterprise.

My notes finish here. There is any-how little to add. I jumped from my machine, but I was so numb that for some time they would not support me. However, after a few minutes, I felt quite well again, and cheered to the echo by the villagers, who had arrived in large numbers. I left again to report to my chiefs and heard that my friend had been killed safely, and landed about 80 miles from me. My happiness was then complete.

And now, Mr Krupp, to the pleasure of seeing you again soon.

SOME RECENT WAR HONOURS.

Amongst a long list of names of officers upon whom honours have been conferred, which appeared in the London Gazette of 14th ult., are the following:—

Capt. (temp. Major) Alan Grant Birch, D.S.O., R.E. It is recorded: "With a small party he pushed forward on reconnaissance work under very heavy fire. The information gained was of great value. He was severely wounded (D.S.O. awarded in Gazette dated Jan. 14, 1916)." For this Major Birch has been given a Bar to his D.S.O. Major Birch, we may recall, is the son of the late Mr. J. Grant Birch, who was drowned in the Yellow River in China when the raft, on which he and Lieut. Watts Jones were descending the river was wrecked. This was at the time of the Boxer disturbance in 1900. Major Birch has been in hospital for some time, and though he is progressing favourably, it cannot yet be stated whether the injuries to his foot are of a permanent nature or only temporary, as all his friends hope.

Capt. John Herbert Jordan, R.A.M.C. As we have already noted, the Military Cross has been conferred on this officer. The official record is: "Under very heavy fire he re-entrained the front area for wounded, and by his gallantry was instrumental in recovering many wounded men from shell-holes." Capt. Jordan is the son of Sir John Jordan, K.C.B., the British Minister at Peking.
